

National Pathology Week
3-9 November 2008

Are your A-level students considering a career in medicine?

Learn some basic pathology skills and find out more about a career in medicine and pathology.

Experience what it is like to be a haematologist, microbiologist, immunologist, clinical biochemist and histopathologist.

There will be many hands-on activities for students, including taking blood from a prosthetic arm, using microscopes to diagnose disease and tracking the outbreak of a simulated disease!

Your students will also be able to ask questions to real pathologists about applying for medical school, life as a medical student and future career choices including pathology.

3 November 2008

9.30 – 12.45

The Royal College of Pathologists
2 Carlton House Terrace, SW1Y 5AF

For further information or to book a place, please contact

Ruth Semple

Exhibition and Outreach Project Manager

ruth.semple@rcpath.org

020 7451 6753