

Operation

Operation

Surgeons perform operations but they need pathologists to tell them about the tissue they have removed. Histopathologists are doctors who diagnose disease by looking at tissue under the microscope. So if you've had your appendix out or a mole removed, a histopathologist will have examined it, looking at the cells to diagnose inflammation, for example.

Our Events

- NPY Event Registration Form
- Events by Month
- Events by location
- Promotional Materials Request Form
- Pathology in Focus: Photography Competition